Position Description for Wyoming Director to Federation of State Beef Councils “Federation Director”

I. General Description

One of the priorities of the Wyoming Beef Council is to increase beef demand through national consumer marketing programs. The Federation of State Beef Councils is housed within the National Cattlemen’s Beef Association Checkoff Division. Investment of funds in the Checkoff Federation Division provides for representation from Wyoming on the Federation of State Beef Councils. Directors serve on national beef checkoff committees and help form and direct national checkoff programs. Currently, the investment made by the Wyoming Beef Council provides for three representatives to serve on the Federation of State Beef Councils. Federation Directors serve at the pleasure of the Wyoming Beef Council and act on behalf of the Council and their constituents.

II. Requirements

- The Beef Checkoff Director must own cattle and reside in Wyoming.
- Basic knowledge about state and national checkoff programs is required.
- Each director is appointed to a three-year term. Members can serve two consecutive three-year terms. If the director is selected to move through the chairs to become a national chairman, the Council may waive the two consecutive three-year term limit and grant an additional 3-year term for completion of movement through the chairs.

III. Duties

- Become familiar with the general objectives and policies of the Council;
- Represent the view of the Council on all beef checkoff and Federation of State Beef Council committees on which they may serve;
- Communicate information about the Federation of State Beef Councils and its activities to the Council and to beef industry constituents;
- Represent the Council at meetings of other industry organizations;
- Attend at least two national cattle industry meetings annually at the Council’s expense;
- Attend at least two Wyoming Beef Council meetings for direction and to communicate information about the Federation and its activities to the Council.

Additional information:

Beef Checkoff Directors serve without compensation but receive reimbursement for lodging, mileage and meals as provided by law for state employees.
